

ALTER-NET BODIES: FAT/CRIP/QUEERED IDENTITIES, EXPRESSIONS, AND CYBER ACTIVISM

SAVE THE
DATE
10/26/18

Call For Papers

Intersections of Fat, Disabled,
Queer, Trans, and Intersex
Experiences

Virtual spatialities and Activism

Intersections of the Body
Positive Movement, Trans
Liberation Movement,
Disability Movement,
Black Lives Matter

Love, Sex, and Intimacy
in Cyberspace

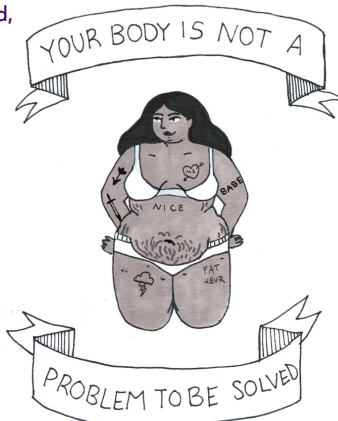

Hashtag (#) Activism
for Liberation

Alter-net Healing Spaces and Safe Spaces

LGBTQ Digital Art and
DIY Projects Tutorials

Butch and Femme Aesthetics, GenderPresentations,
Performance, Embodiments

Generational discourses on LGBTQ Terminology & Context

Artist: Mollie Cronin

The Fall 2018 QGrad Conference at UCLA explores the intersections of fatness, gender, race, queerness, ability status, and technology. Alter-net bodies transcend physical and virtual space but are still impacted by rhetoric that labels them deviant, ugly, and unruly. In what ways do Alter-net bodies exist more or less freely in digital space than in physical space? How do fat/crip/queers of color utilize and expand cyberspace as sites of resistance? How do Alter-net people perform, express, articulate, generate, and create resistant identities and aesthetics?

We invite proposals for papers addressing the overall conference theme of any of the above topics

Deadline Extended: August 10, 2018
Please Submit 250 Word Abstract to:
<https://tinyurl.com/QGrad2018>

Questions? Email us at qgradconference@gmail.com.